1	not sure what you are referring to as "setting the table". If you mean the small group work; it clearly raised questions about why is this framework being given to us to review? what does the CIS leadership want from it? How do you want it to be used. I felt much of the meeting had good information but the purpose, what you wanted us to do and why was not clear.	12/8/2016 9:25 AM

1	clearly compensation is the #1 reason people leave CIS. I don't remember that being addressed at the meeting; what strategies is CIS using to address this? Also retention and training needs were suggested links but not clearly tied ( part 1 and part 2 of the meeting). How can the IPDP inform the need for training? How does the need for time to do paperwork etc. balance with time to attend training and other professional development activities that take from work with families?	12/8/2016 9:25 AM
2	This was the 3rd time I have seen the data and each time I learn something new.	12/6/2016 2:21 PM

1	Perhaps developing CIS training priorities is a job just for CIS people. The Framework is useful but no one wants to analyze other people's data. Keep activities relevant to all the people in the room.	12/8/2016 11:50 AM
2	it was not clear why CIS created this and how it was to be used. That should have been articulated first. I think the idea was good and preparation was thorough, but without the background and purpose, a lot of time is spent trying to understand what and why.	12/8/2016 9:25 AM
3	It solidified my understanding and opened my eyes to the possibilities of how and why to use the decision making tool outside of its purpose for the state plan for in-service personnel development activities.	12/6/2016 2:21 PM

Q8 What could be done to improve the next Strategic Planning Team Meeting?

Answered: 6 Skipped: 2

#	Responses	Date
1	stating the intent/purpose of activities and giving some history or context in order to focus participants on the questions/issues/tasks at hand (versus going off on many tangents and derailing some of the process and slowing down progress)	12/20/2016 3:20 PM
2	We may need to figure out how to include a broader audience (eg more from the PPD). Let's evaluate after the next PPD meeting.	12/16/2016 10:57 AM
3	More review or pre-setting of what work has already happened and where we are now in the process. Keep activities relevant to everyone in the room. Invite more field practitioners.	12/8/2016 11:51 AM
4	be very clear with the purpose of each part of the meeting, if they are connected or not, and specifically what you want from the participants (to decide, to recommend, to practice, to provide context, etc). besure to connect past meeting work with current meeting work	12/8/2016 9:26 AM
5	I think maybe trying to have some prep discussions with partners beforehand helps or to make sure there are facilitators assigned to each small group to illicit dialogue.	12/6/2016 2:23 PM
6	a little time for background info at the beginning of the meeting	12/6/2016 1:34 PM
